

<http://www.gowerpublishing.com/isbn/9781409403869>

Assessment Centres and Global Talent Management

Edited by

NIGEL POVAH and
GEORGE C. THORNTON III

GOWER

Notes on Contributors

Mohd Hanafiah Ahmad, MA, is a Lecturer of Management at Universiti Malaysia Pahang, Malaysia and is also completing his PhD at Massey University, New Zealand. His research focuses on how national cultural values are reflected in the design and implementation of assessment centers in Malaysia. He can be contacted by email at hanafiah@ump.edu.my

Sean P. Baldwin, MS, is a doctoral candidate at the University of Georgia studying industrial and organizational psychology and his principal research interest is measuring leadership in the workplace. He has authored and co-authored manuscripts addressing the validity and psychometric quality of AC ratings and performance ratings in general. Sean has experience creating measures of leadership, providing developmental feedback to practicing managers, and administering and interpreting employee engagement surveys. Sean can be contacted by email at seanpbaldwin@gmail.com

Eva Bergvall obtained a degree in Psychology from the University of Lund, before becoming a Research Assistant in the Department for Educational Psychology, followed by working in a number of local schools and social institutions. In 1992 she moved to Gothenburg where she managed a group of 30 psychologists, before taking charge of Administration for Human Resources for a local municipality within the City. In 2002 she was given the task of running an Assessment and Development Center service for Gothenburg and 12 smaller cities. The Assessment Center has evoked a lot of interest and many articles have been published in a number of Swedish Magazines. Eva has delivered a number of presentations at the Swedish 'Testdagarna', the International Congress on Assessment Center Methods, and the Assessment Centre Study Group in Stellenbosch, South Africa. Since 2009 Eva's work has focused on the recruitment and development of top level executives in Gothenburg. Eva can be reached by email at eva.bergvall@stadshuset.goteborg.se

Sandra Betti graduated from the Pontificia Universidade Católica of São Paulo (PUC-SP) as a psychologist. She has a master's degree in Social Psychology from the same university, a specialization in Human Resource Development from Harvard University and another specialization in HR Strategy from the University of Michigan Business School. As a specialist in Management Development, Coaching, Mentoring, Team Building, Assessment Centers and Talent Identification she has extensive HR experience and has filled executive positions in large companies. She is also a professor in the post-graduate and MBA programs at Fundação Dom Cabral and UNICENP (a division of Grupo Positivo). Actively engaged in pro-bono activities, she is a mentor at the FGV-SP Junior Enterprise, Fundação Estudar, Fundação Brava, Brasil Junior (Brazilian Association of Junior Enterprises), and is a volunteer at Empreender Endeavor Brasil. She is also a certified international Master Coach through the New York Behavioral Coaching Institute. Email: Sandrabetti@mbaempresarial.com.br

Raimund Birri, PhD, in Neuropsychology from the University of Zürich, Switzerland. He trained software developers and specialists for human-computer interfaces and their evaluation in usability-labs. He became a Research Fellow in HUSAT (Human Sciences and Advanced Technology) at Loughborough University of Technology, England. He has broad experience as a manager of software development units in Credit Suisse, progressing to the Head of a team of AC specialists in Credit Suisse, before becoming the Global Head of Human Capital Evaluation and Management, responsible for performance management, engagement surveys, talent management, ACs, 360°, and so on. Dr Birri has made several contributions to International Conferences on Assessment Centers and Human Capital Management. Since retiring in 2008, he enjoys travelling, sports, and reading and writing. Contact information: Dr. Raimund Birri, Schiffbaustr. 12, 8005 Zürich, Switzerland. Tel: +41 79 2161679 Email: raimund.birri@gmx.ch

Seán Boyle, MSc, CPsychol, AFBPsS, MCIPD, is an independent business psychologist and a former partner in one of the UK's most admired psychology consulting firms. He has advised and supported many blue-chip organizations on varied aspects of talent management, concentrating on the identification, development and coaching of senior management potential. Designing and implementing assessment and development centres, and conducting individual assessments for senior management positions are regular aspects of his work. Earlier in his career, having trained in occupational psychology he held research posts at Queen's University Belfast and Birkbeck College (University of London). Seán was an internal specialist in assessment, development and change management for a number of public and private sector organizations in Britain and Ireland. Seán can be contacted by email at psychology@sboyle.eu

Anne Buckett, MCom, is a qualified Industrial Psychologist in South Africa with extensive experience in assessment and development in industry. She is presently the Managing Consultant of Precision HR with specialist expertise in the areas of HR competency-based assessment and development. She has worked at and with several large international consulting firms acquiring consolidated experience in a wide range of HR interventions. In addition, she is trained on a variety of tools, techniques and methodologies across a large number of well-established test publishers. Her experience covers both private and public sector organizations. Anne has served as a member of the executive committee of People Assessment in Industry (PAI) in 2006–2007. She was Regional Chairperson for the Society of Industrial and Organisational Psychology of South Africa (SIOPSA) Pretoria Branch (2007–2009) and the Chairperson of the Assessment Centre Study Group of South Africa (ACSG) from 2008–2009. She can be reached by email at anne@precisionhr.co.za

Olexander (Sasha) Chernyshenko is currently an associate professor at Nanyang Technological University School of Business. His research focuses on applications of psychometric methods in the areas of personality and job attitudes, and he teaches graduate level courses including advanced industrial organizational psychology, research methods, human resource management, performance management, and organizational development. He can be reached by email at Chernyshenko@ntu.edu.sg

Tony Cockerill is currently a visiting research fellow at Goldsmiths, University of London. He was formerly at London Business School and he co-founded the business that is now Kenexa Leadership Solutions. He has expertise in the application of innovative approaches to assessment of leadership capability, strategic talent management, and organizational design. He can be contacted by email at Tony.Cockerill@HighPerform.co

Chris Dewberry, PhD, was educated at Plymouth Polytechnic where he graduated with a BA in Psychology and he then went on to University College London, where he gained a PhD in Psychology. Chris has lectured at several institutions including University of London Goldsmiths and Roehampton University and he has worked in the Department of Organizational Psychology at Birkbeck College, University of London, for over 20 years, where he teaches research methods and personnel selection and assessment, to students studying Occupational Psychology and Organizational Behaviour. Chris's research interests are principally in the areas of assessment and self-regulation. He is particularly interested in the psychological processes which affect the evaluation of human performance and in individual differences in self-regulatory styles and ability. Chris can be contacted by email at c.dewberry@bbk.ac.uk

Fritz Drasgow is currently a professor of Psychology and of Labor and Employment Relations at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. His research focuses on psychological measurement. He has conducted research designed to identify individuals mis-measured by tests. He has used multimedia computer technology to assess social and interpersonal skills not easily measured by paper-and-pencil tests, and explored psychometric models for non-cognitive assessment. He can be reached by email at fdrasgow@illinois.edu

Madeleine Dunford, BA, MSc, is the Managing Director of Career Connections, an assessment consultancy in Kenya, which she founded in 1997. She has extensive experience in the areas of psychometric testing and assessment centres. For the past 6 years Career Connections has been instrumental in the introduction of Assessment and Development Centres into East Africa. Career Connections is primarily focused in providing these services for the regional head quarters of global multinationals, and large local companies, including fast moving consumer good manufacturers, banking and telecommunication organizations. Madeleine received a BA (Hons) from the University of York, UK, and an MSc from Edinburgh University, UK. She is an accredited executive coach. Madeleine can be contacted at Career Connections Ltd, P.O. Box 25118, 00603, Nairobi, Kenya, or by email at madeleine@careerconnections.co.ke

Clive Fletcher, BA, PhD, CPsychol, FBPsS, FRSM, is Professor Emeritus in Psychology at Goldsmiths College, University of London, an Honorary Professor at Warwick Business School and Managing Director of Personnel Assessment Ltd. Clive is a Fellow of both the British Psychological Society and the Royal Society of Medicine. He has been involved in research in the fields of performance appraisal and leadership assessment and development for more than 30 years, and has authored over 200 publications and conference papers in this area. He is a consultant to a wide range of organizations on psychological assessment of candidates for top management positions. His knowledge and experience in the assessment field is recognised internationally; he has held visiting professorial posts in other European countries and serves on the Advisory Boards of a number of UK and overseas companies working in the assessment field. He can be contacted at c.fletcher@personnel-assessment.com

Shaul Fox, PhD, is a Professor of Industrial-Organizational Psychology in the Department of Psychology at Bar-Ilan University in Ramat-Gan, Israel, where he also completed his doctorate. His research interests span a broad spectrum, including personnel selection, cognitive biases in decision-making, organizational changes, and performance appraisal. He has published a large number of articles in both Israeli and international scientific journals, such as Journal of Applied Psychology, Personnel Psychology, International Journal of Selection and Assessment, Journal of Occupational and Organizational Psychology, and Journal of Business and Psychology. He is also the author of a book (in Hebrew) on Resistance to Organizational Changes and has published numerous technical reports. He has extensive experience in the field of organizational consultation, OD projects, and in developing, implementing, administering, and researching assessment centres at several leading organizations in Israel. Shaul can be contacted by email at Shaul.Fox@biu.ac.il

Gary Grace, MSc, is a consultant for PeopleCentric Associates and specializes in the field of applied psychology and psychometric testing. He has an active role in the psychological society in New Zealand, acting as the professional development coordinator and I-O editor of the psychological society biannual magazine. Gary has a keen interest in the use of task-based assessment centres in New Zealand organizations and is considering undertaking a PhD in this area. He can be contacted by email at gary@peoplecentric.co.nz

Nigel Guenole is currently the Kenexa High Performance Institute's research director for the United Kingdom. He is also a lecturer in work psychology and programme director for the MSc Occupational Psychology at Goldsmiths College, University of London. His work focuses on applications of modern psychometric approaches like structural equation modeling to the study of personality and work attitudes. Nigel can be reached by email at n.guenole@gold.ac.uk.

Soly Haboucha, MA, from City University of New York, USA, is an Industrial-Organizational Psychologist with 30 years of research and practical experience in the fields of personnel selection, test development, performance appraisal and organizational consulting. Among the pioneers of managerial ACs in Israel, he has been instrumental in introducing ACs in several Israeli organizations and maintains a hands-on approach in everyday practice. His professional experience spans a broad spectrum of organizations, including the military, government and public institutions, as well as business firms. From 1988 to 1996 he served as head of the Israeli Air Force Personnel Selection Branch, before joining Top-C, a leading provider of personnel testing and organizational consulting services, as chief psychologist. His international projects include the development and application of selection systems in two African countries. He has published numerous technical reports. Soly can be reached by email at sires@smile.net.il

Shinichi Hirose is a Research Associate at the Graduate School of Business Administration, Keio University in Yokohama, Japan. His business experience includes management consulting at McKinsey Tokyo, Osaka, and Seoul Offices, and the role of

Director of Human Resources at Electronic Data Systems (EDS, currently a division of Hewlett-Packard), among others. In recent years he served as an assessor in the assessment center programs for Japanese branches of global corporations. He received a Master of Management from J.L. Kellogg Graduate School of Management at Northwestern University and BA in Letters from the University of Tokyo. Shinichi can be contacted by email at hirose@kk.ij4u.or.jp

Brian J. Hoffman, PhD, is Assistant Professor on the Industrial and Organizational Psychology Program at the University of Georgia. He earned his doctorate from the University of Tennessee. His primary research interest is leadership assessment, with an emphasis on understanding the quality of information received from assessment centers and multisource performance ratings. Brian's research has been published in Personnel Psychology, Journal of Applied Psychology, and Academy of Management Journal, and he was the recipient of the 2011 Douglas Bray/Ann Howard award. He has served on the program committee of the International Congress on the Assessment Center Method and has co-edited a book on ACs, 'The Psychology of Assessment Centers.' Over the past ten years, Brian has served as an AC designer, administrator, and assessor / role player for a variety of large and small companies. He can be reached by email at hoffmanb@uga.edu

Duncan Jackson, PhD, works as an Assistant Professor at the University of Seoul, South Korea. He has experience researching and developing assessment centers in New Zealand and in Korea and has published in some of the leading journals in Industrial-Organizational Psychology, including the International Journal of Selection and Assessment and Human Performance. His experience in the assessment center domain spans a range of industries in both the public and private sectors. This includes applications at executive, managerial, and entry levels. He has worked with assessment centers for employee selection and development purposes in retail, service, military, government, and agricultural industries. Duncan's expertise ranges from the design of assessment center exercises to scoring approaches and psychometric analyses. Duncan can be contacted by email at duncanjackson@gmail.com

Myungjoon (Marco) Kim, PhD, MBA, is a very experienced senior consultant in personnel development and organizational behavior and is expert in the use of psychometric instruments and the assessment center method. He has strong facilitation skills in management development programs, particularly using the Strong Interest Inventory and MBTI® applications, and other aptitude tests and selection and development tools within Korea. He has delivered assessment and development centers within both the public and private sectors for government and global companies. Dr. Kim is Managing Director of the ASSESTA Corp. in Seoul (www.assesta.com). He has an MBA from Yonsei University and a PhD in Human Resource Management from Kwangwoon University. He recently spent three years as a visiting scholar at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, conducting research on developmental assessment centers. He is a well known researcher and writes frequently for academic journals. He can be reached by email at marcok@unitel.co.kr.

Dr. Diana E. Krause is a tenured Professor of Human Resource Management and Organizational Behavior at the Alpen-Adria University Klagenfurt (Austria) (www.uni-klu.ac.at/opm/inhalt/1.htm or <http://kinderbali.ki.funpic.de/>). She is the head of the team on Personnel, Organization, and Management Development. She had several professorships at University Paderborn (Germany), University of Medical Informatics and Technology (Austria), University Speyer (Germany), Humboldt University Berlin (Germany), and University of Western Ontario (Canada). Dr. Krause intensified her research on Assessment Center Programs during her Visiting fellowship at Colorado State University (USA) in 2004 and 2005 where she worked closely together with Professor George C. Thornton III. In 2005, she finished her Habilitation (Venia legendi for Psychology) at Ludwig-Maximilians University Munich. In 2003, she received her Ph.D. in Economics and Management at Technical University Berlin. She can be contacted by email at DianaEva.Krause@uni-klu.ac.at

Dr. Kai-Guang (Carl) Liang is the managing director of C&D Management Consulting. He received an M.S. in Managerial Psychology (1986) from Zhejiang University, an M.A. from the Central Michigan University (1994) and a Ph.D. from the Old Dominion University in Industrial-Organizational Psychology (1999). Previously Dr. Liang worked at PDI Shanghai Office, AT&T's Sourcing & Selection Group in New Jersey, and Renmin University of China in Beijing. He and his colleagues had set up one of the earliest assessment centers in 1990 and conducted a pioneering validation research on assessment centers in China. Dr. Liang works with multinational and local companies as well as government agencies in China in the areas of competency modeling, leadership assessment and development, and organizational development. He is an active contributor at the Society for Industrial and Organizational Psychology and the International Congress of Assessment Center Methods. He can be reached by email at carl.liang@cndgroup.com

Filip Lievens received his PhD from Ghent University, Belgium and is currently Professor at the Department of Personnel Management and Work and Organizational Psychology at the same university. He is the author of over 100 articles in the areas of organizational attractiveness, high-stakes testing, and selection including assessment centers, situational judgment tests, and web-based assessment. He has also delivered over 200 presentations, workshops and invited keynote presentations across all continents (Europe, USA, Asia, Africa, and Australia). Filip serves as an editorial board member of both the Journal of Applied Psychology and Personnel Psychology and was a past book review editor of the International Journal of Selection and Assessment. Dr. Lievens has also received several awards, such as being the first European winner of the Distinguished Early Career Award of the Society for Industrial and Organizational Psychology (2006) and the first industrial and organizational psychologist to be laureate of the Royal Flemish Academy of Sciences and Arts (2008). He can be contacted by email at Filip.Lievens@UGent.be or by telephone on +32-9-2646453.

Ying Liu, PhD, is assistant professor in the School of Public Administration at Renmin University of China. She received her M.S. and Ph.D. in Industrial/Organizational Psychology from Old Dominion University. Her research interests include team performance and team leadership, leadership development as well as cross-cultural management. Her research has appeared in the Journal of Cross-cultural Management, International Journal of Intercultural Relations, and International Journal of Psychology. She is a member of the Society of Industrial and Organizational Psychology and the Academy of Management. Dr. Liu can be reached by email at lylw.liu@gmail.com or liuying@mparuc.edu.cn.

Natalie Livings, MSc, CPsychol, AFBPsS, MCIPD, is a Consultant for YSC Ltd, a global business psychology consultancy. She is a chartered occupational psychologist, a member of the Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development and an associate fellow of the British Psychological Society. After graduating with an MSc in Occupational Psychology, Natalie started her career working for Marks & Spencer. She then moved to QinetiQ where she spent a number of years undertaking research for the military and government. Natalie then joined A&DC Ltd, a Surrey-based consultancy. There she designed and delivered a variety of assessment and development centre solutions to UK-based and international organizations. At YSC she is involved in the assessment and development of senior leaders, high-potential identification, executive coaching and assessment and development centre design and delivery. A qualified coach and counsellor, Natalie's passion is helping individuals to understand and achieve their potential. Natalie can be reached at natalie.livings@ysc.com

Zia Manji, BCom, is a Director of Career Connections, an assessment consultancy which he joined in 2002, after nearly seven years in general management in a large food manufacturing company. He has extensive experience in executive recruitment and was involved in the introduction of Assessment and Development Centres, including marketing and assessor training. For the last 9 years he has specialized in working with companies to design and conduct assessment centres, selection programmes, 360-degree feedback programmes, and executive coaching. He received his BCom from the University of Edinburgh, and is an accredited executive coach and facilitator for the Academy of Executive Coaching. Zia can be contacted at Career Connections Ltd, P.O. Box 25118, 00603, Nairobi, Kenya. Email: zia@careerconnections.co.ke

Deon Meiring, PhD, is an Associate Professor at the University of Pretoria, Department of Human Resource Management. He completed his PhD at the Tilburg University, Netherlands under Prof Fons van de Vijver in 2007 one of the leading Cross-Cultural Psychologists. Deon's field of specialisation is in advanced assessment practice and he has extensive experience in assessment and development centre design, situational judgment testing and personality test construction. He was the chairperson of the Assessment Centre Study Group (ACSG) in 2007–2008 and in 2010 he received an honorary membership from the ACSG for his work in assessment centres in South Africa (www.acsg.co.za). His research can be viewed at www.meiringd.co.za.

Andreas Melcher, Diplom, in Psychology from the University of Kiel, Germany. He then joined SHL Deutschland GmbH, where he gained broad experience in the development and validation of psychometric products, implementation of personnel selection solutions and management assessments. He then moved to Credit Suisse where he became an AC specialist, before heading up a team of Human Capital specialists, responsible for varying topic areas such as the bank-wide Talent Development Process, Performance Management, 360° feedback, competency modelling. He was promoted to Head of Assessments and Human Capital Metrics at Credit Suisse with responsibility for the global assessment practice and overarching topics related to the human capital management framework and metrics. He has made several contributions to International Conferences on Human Capital Management with a key focus on measurement approaches and quantifying the impact of human capital practices on the bottom-line. Contact information: Andreas Melcher, Credit Suisse AG, HLLC, 8070 Zürich, +41 44 332 1093, andreas.melcher@credit-suisse.com

Will Mitchell, BSc, MSc, CPsychol, heads up the consultancy practice of over 20 psychologists at A&DC Ltd. He has over 15 years of experience in consulting and is a Chartered Occupational Psychologist and Assessor on the Board of the BPS Occupational Psychology Division. He has specific expertise in the development of talent management strategy based on the use of assessment and development centres and building the business case based on ROI evidence. He has written widely on talent development, positive psychology, work-life balance, 360° feedback and learning agility in specialist journals and media such as the Sunday Times. He regularly speaks at HR practitioner conferences and has designed and delivered a number of programmes for both public sector and private sector clients. He coaches senior executives in how to deal with change and transition, utilising the principles of positive psychology to aid personal development. Will has held previous consulting roles with Mercer and International Survey Research as well as with the Outward Bound Trust. He can be contacted by email at will.mitchell@adc.uk.com

Satiko Monobe graduated from the Pontificia Universidade Católica of São Paulo (PUC-SP) as a psychologist and has a masters degree in Social Psychology from the same university. She holds the Certificate of Advanced Studies in Cross-Cultural Communication by the Thunderbird School of Global Management. Her extensive professional HR experience was obtained in management positions in large companies. Her specialties are Executive Recruitment, Coaching, and Assessment Centers. She coordinates projects to identify new talents, and selects MBA candidates for company sponsorship. Actively engaged in pro-bono activities, she is a mentor at the Fundação Estudar, Fundação Brava and FGV-SP Junior Enterprise. Email: satikomonobe@mbaempresarial.com.br

Ee-Ling Ng, MA, is a Senior Consultant with the Centre for Leadership Development at the Civil Service College in Singapore. She graduated with honours from the University of Nottingham, UK, and obtained her MA (Psychometrics) degree from the University of British Columbia, Canada. She started her career in the Singapore Civil Service with a focus on providing selection and assessment solutions for various public sector organisations. Specifically, her work revolved around conducting assessments for early identification of talent, and the design and implementation of assessment programmes for senior personnel. In recent years, her interest in developing people and nurturing talent has resulted in a career shift towards providing consultancy in leadership development. Currently, she provides assistance to public sector clients in defining, designing and implementing appropriate leadership development strategies. She also facilitates leadership development programmes, and provides leadership feedback and coaching. She can be contacted by email at ng_ee_ling@cscollege.gov.sg

Glenn J. Nosworthy, PhD, is an Independent Consultant and Adjunct Associate Professor at the National University of Singapore Business School. He obtained his

PhD in 1993 in Basic and Applied Psychology at Queen's University, Canada. For 9 years he worked as an occupational psychologist in the Canadian Public Service and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police specialising in assessment largely for recruitment and promotion purposes (for example, participating in the design of cognitive ability tests, structured interviews, situational judgment tests, assessment centres, and so on). He moved to Singapore in 1999 and took up a faculty position at the National University of Singapore Business School where he became Head of the Department of Management and Organisation. He subsequently joined SHL, an international consultancy, as VP Assessment for the Asia Pacific region. For the past 6 years, he has been an independent consultant offering assessment services to various public and private sector organizations in Singapore. Glenn can be reached by email at glennj@starhub.net.sg

Vina G. Pendit, Bachelor Degree (S1) in Psychology, University of Indonesia. She is a Director and co-founder of PT Daya Dimensi Indonesia, a human resources company which supports the preparation of human capital via selection and assessment, learning and development, and human resources strategic consulting. Clients include multi-national organizations, state-owned and government institutions, and private organizations in various industrial sectors. Ms. Pendit has a keen interest in the development and implementation of assessment centers for various levels of staff, and she coordinated the national committee which wrote Indonesia's 'Ethical Guidelines for Assessment Center Implementation.' She has presented many workshops and seminars on the assessment center method, including presentations to the International Congress on Assessment Center Methods. She established and is now Vice Chair of PASSTI (Perkumpulan Assessment Center Indonesia), a non-profit organization that promotes the integrity of the assessment center method through communication sessions to different communities and practitioners. Contact information: vina.pendit@dayadimensi.co.id

R.K. Premarajan, PhD, currently works as Professor in the Organizational Behavior and Human Resources areas at XLRI Jamshedpur, India. He is also a member of the Governing Board of XLRI. He completed his Masters in Psychology at the University of Calicut, and his PhD in Organizational Behavior at the Indian Institute of Technology, Bombay. He teaches, researches and consults in the areas of Competency Based HRM, Organizational Career Development, and Measuring HR. At XLRI he held the Chair position of L&T Scholar of HR during 2002–2005. Prior to joining XLRI he held positions with the Corporate HRD department of Larsen & Toubro Limited (L&T) in Bombay, as well as Executive Assistant to Chairman, National Dairy Development Board (NDDB) India. Contact information: XLRI, Jamshedpur, CH Area (E) P.O. Box No 222, Jamshedpur 831 001 India. Tel: +91-657-3983149. Email: prem@xlri.ac.in

Sophie Pritchard, MSc, MSc, CPsychol, is currently Head of Talent for a global financial services organization. Previously, Sophie worked as a Senior Consultant at A&DC. She has extensive experience designing and using simulation exercises in Assessment and Development Centres, working with clients across a range of industry sectors. Sophie holds a Bachelor's degree in Psychology from the University of Sheffield and Masters degrees in Occupational and Forensic Psychology from the University of Surrey and University of Kent. Sophie can be contacted by email at either Sophie.Pritchard@barclays.com or Pritchard_Sophie@hotmail.com

David C. Purdy, CMC, is President of Psychological Consultants, Inc. (www.pciassessments.com), having joined the firm in 1977. He has extensive experience in leadership assessment and is responsible for the development and conduct of assessment center programs for major US organizations as well as international companies. For the past 20 years, he has specialized in working with companies in the pharmaceutical, biotech, and medical device industry, designing and conducting assessment center programs for aspiring sales managers as well as current managers and executives. He is a Certified Management Consultant. Mr. Purdy received his BA from the College of William and Mary and his MA from the University of Richmond. Contact information: Psychological Consultants, Inc., 6724 Patterson Avenue, Richmond, VA 23226, USA. Tel: +1-804-288-4125. Email: david.purdy@pciassessments.com

Philippa Riley, MSc, CPsychol, is currently working as a Senior Consultant in the Product Development team at A&DC, having previously worked as a Consultant for QinetiQ Ltd. Philippa holds a Bachelor's degree in Psychology and Sociology from the University of Durham, and a Masters degree in Occupational Psychology from the University of Sheffield. Philippa has extensive experience as an exercise designer, assessor and centre manager and is responsible for managing A&DC's assessment and development centre exercise range, AC-EXS™, the world's largest range of ready-to-use assessment and development centre exercises. Philippa can be contacted by email at philippa.riley@adc.uk.com

Deborah E. Rupp, PhD, from Colorado State University, is the William C. Byham Chair in Industrial/Organizational Psychology in the Department of Psychological Sciences at Purdue University. She was formerly Associate Professor of Labor/Employment Relations, Psychology, and Law at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign (www.psychology.illinois.edu/people/derupp). Her assessment-related research focuses on validation, developmental assessment centers, and the use of technology to enhance assessment and development. She co-authored the latest edition (2006) of Assessment Centers in Human Resource Management with George Thornton and was the first recipient of the Douglas Bray/Ann Howard Award for research on leadership assessment and development. She also conducts research on organizational justice, corporate social responsibility, and emotions at work, and has published over 60 scholarly papers. She is currently Editor of the Journal of Management, and recently co-chaired the International Congress on Assessment Center Methods, where she co-led the taskforce that prepared/published a revision to the Guidelines and Ethical Considerations for Assessment Center Operations. Her assessment center research was also cited in proceedings surrounding US Supreme Court case Ricci v. DeStefano et al. She can be reached at ruppd@purdue.edu

Eveline Schollaert is a PhD student at Ghent University, Belgium. She is an academic assistant in Human Resources Management at the Department of Personnel Management and Work and Organizational Psychology. Her main area of interest involves psychometric characteristics of assessment centres. She is currently exploring this issue in the context of her dissertation about validity and reliability of assessment centres. She is also interested in the development and use of situational judgment tests and she has contributed to research focusing on their psychometric characteristics, which enabled her to write a practical handbook about this topic with Professor Filip Lievens. Besides her interests in assessment centres and situational judgment tests, she also focuses on other selections tools (such as personality questionnaires, emotional intelligence tests) and other research areas (such as recruitment, response rates, and performance feedback) which have resulted in a number of related presentations and publications. Eveline can be contacted by email at Eveline.Schollaert@UGent.be or by telephone on +32-9-2646459.

Rosalind H. Searle, PhD, MBA, Dip Opsy, CPsychol, AFBPsS, is currently Senior Lecturer in Organizational Psychology at the Open University, UK, and Hon Sen Visiting Fellow, Centre for Performance at Work, City University, UK. She specialises in and has written a number of journal articles, books, chapters and reports on recruitment and selection, trust and HRM, political trust, and the evaluation of performance and training initiatives. Her most recent book is a co-edited collection looking at Trust and HRM. She is co-convenor of the EGOS Standing Working Group on Organizational Trust, Co-chair of the British Academy of Management's Organisational Psychology Group, Chair of the British Psychological Society, Division of Occupational Psychology's International Strategy Group. She also sits on the editorial board of the Journal of Trust Research and advises a number of organizations about their Recruitment and Selection processes, as well as their change programmes. She can be contacted by Email: r.searle@open.ac.uk; Tel: +44 7776 303 580; Skype: rossearle

Svetlana Simonenko, PhD, is the Business Development Director and co-founder of DeTech, a consultancy specialising in the assessment and development field. The company was established in 2004 and now operates in Russia and the Commonwealth of Independent States (CIS). She has over 15 years experience in human resources consulting. During the last 10 years she mainly focuses on assessment methods of personnel. Her primary areas of interest are the adoption of British personnel assessment methods within Russia, Ukraine, Belorussia and Kazakhstan; research on leadership effectiveness in different social and economic environments; and developing new assessment tools such as personality questionnaires and ability tests. Svetlana is one of the authors of the Russian generic competency model '20 Dimensions' and 'Palette of Competencies'. She is a recognized authority in competency modelling, assessment and development centres, psychometric testing and leadership development in Russia, Ukraine and Kazakhstan. Svetlana can be contacted by email at simonenko@detech-group.com

Stephen Stark is currently an associate professor of Psychology at the University of South Florida. His research focuses on the development and application of item response theory methods to practical problems in organizations with an emphasis on non-cognitive assessment, computerized adaptive testing, and the detection of differential item functioning. He can be reached by email at sestark@usf.edu

Jan H. van der Westhuizen is the MD of Experiential Technologies Pty Ltd, (www.experttech.com) a global Assessment and Learning Solutions Company. He completed his post graduate degree at the University of South Africa (UNISA). Jan's field of specialisation is in Organizational Development with emphasis on the use of computer based simulation technology in assessment and development centres. Jan has membership from the Assessment Centre Study Group (ACSG); he is Chartered Human Resources Practitioner with the South African Board for Personnel Practice (SABPP) and a Fellow member of the Australian Institute for Management (AIM). In 2009 he won the APPETD award for Innovation in recognition of his work in the use of technology in assessment centres. Jan delivered papers at the annual ACSG conferences in South Africa and the International Congress on Assessment Center Methods in Singapore 2010, where his paper was on The use of CBST in ADC: a Global Perspective. Jan can be contacted by email at jan@experttech.com or by telephone on +32-27-83- 468-6750.

Charles Woodruffe PhD, CPsychol, AFBPsS, FCIPD, is Managing Director of Human Assets Limited, a London-based firm of business psychologists. Charles and his colleagues specialise in creating and implementing strategies to ensure that clients have the leadership pipeline they need to fulfil their business strategies. Charles has published widely, based on his 30 years experience working on development and assessment centres, competencies and talent management. He has worked with a range of private and public sector clients including Shell, Exxon-Mobil, HSBC, Ernst and Young, the Security Service and the Cabinet Office. Charles emphasizes taking a tailored approach to clients' needs and he has built a reputation for ensuring the diversity credentials of his solutions. Charles can be contacted by email at charles.woodruffe@humanassets.co.uk

Jeeyun Yoon, MS, is a Graduate Student at the Georgia Institute of Technology. Her PhD research focuses on cross-cultural issues related to attributions in Leadership Studies. Jeeyun has experience working in Assessment Centers in South Korea with the Assesta organization. Jeeyun can be reached by email at jyoon@gatech.edu